Semi Wind-Up Was Best Event On Wrestling Card

Trudeau Unable to Appear, Demchuk in His Place Failed to Give Satisfaction to Fans

The first of a series of wrestling cards to be staged during the winter took place in the Community hall on Monday evening before approximately 50 cash customers.

The first feature of the evening saw two local boys, Trotz and Bill Ukrainetz, wrestle. The bout went three rounds with neither one securing a fall. Both boys were tired at the end of the bout and received a good hand from the crowd.

The semi wind up between Don Ferguson and Darby Melnick was the best feature of the evening. These boys mixed it freely and put on a real good show. Melnick was the flashier of the two and tried to please the crowd with his facial contortions and howls of pain whenever he was caught in a painful hold. Ferguson took the first fall in the third round in one minute and fifteen seconds, much to the delight of the crowd, who were pulling for Ferguson. Melnick came back strong in the fourth and knocked Ferguson from pillar to post, finally subduing him with a jumping headlock to take the second fall. The last round saw plenty of action and the crowd became so interested that they began to shout out advice to the wrestlers. The bout ended in a draw with one fall each.

Owing to Hec Trudeau, who had been scheduled to meet Wildcat Johnson, dislocating his shoulder in a wrestling bout in Moose Jaw, J. Demchuk of Edmonton was sent to replace him. The good work of the previous bout was a sharp contrast to the main event. Demchuk was no match for Johnson and it wasn't long before the crowd was showing displeasure. "Hank" Rohr, the Calgary promoter, states that a good program will be arranged for the next of the series.

A FORMER Coleman lady living in Edmonton was visiting relatives here last week. She remarked that a copy of The Journal which she receives weekly is read by six people and then in an almost worn out condition it passes on to former Mayor Burns, who eats it. The home town weekly is enjoyed by people long after they move from the town. It keeps them in touch with old friends and neighbors. The Journal staff sends good wishes to all out of town readers who may persevere this.

Remembrance or Armistice Day Notes

Bellevue Branch Ladies Auxiliaries of the Canadian Legion plan on holding a whist drive and dance to commemorate the Armistice, on Friday, Nov. 9, in Bellevue Oddfellows hall. This will doubtless arouse keen local interest.

Your Prosperity Is Ours Too!

A newspaper thrives only in a prosperous community. That is why newspapers always use their influence to uphold a good standard of wages for the primary producers, which includes those who till the soil, those who work in factories and mines. Poorly paid wage-earners do not have any more than sufficient to buy the necessities of life, and prosperity only comes from equal distribution of profits, to which those who work with their hands a share is due.

The present system is changing. It was developed from the early years of trade and barter to a more convenient method. Not by scrapping the system but by eliminating its weaknesses and substituting greater equality can prosperity be restored. Practical effort cannot be ignored. Shadowy ideals of enthusiasts appeal to emotional people, but hard facts must be contended with. Wise employers know that they must take workers into their confidence, for they are co-partners in productive enterprise, and loyalty is essential to progress and business.

Newspapers will always be advocates of a fair deal. They are produced by the work of men's hands, as well as by mental effort, and typographical unions have always maintained a fair standard. Newspapers can only thrive when wages are good when people have money to buy all the goods they require. A world without newspapers would be lacking one of its vitalizing forces for disseminating information and advocating progress. Newspapers strive to serve, and their existence depends on the prosperity of working people.—H. T. Halliwell.

McGillivray Miners Are Equipped With Improved Electric Lamps

First Mine In Alberta to Equip All Underground Men With Latest Type Edison Cap Lamp

Over 300 underground workers of McGillivray Creek Coal & Coke Co. are now equipped with lamps of 55 candle power compared with less than 6 candle power of the old type lamps.

This will facilitate working conditions and make for a greater degree of safety. Even if one bulb burns out there is a lesser powered bulb which will still give light, similar to the dimmers on an automobile.

The new lamps are highly appreciated by the miners and other underground workers.

China Wants Alberta Horses

Whether or not the Orientis preparing war, the fact remains that China is making a demand on Canada for cavalry and artillery horses, and echoes of this demand have reached Alberta via Ottawa. This province should be able to provide 500 head or so of such animals, it is believed by those who should know, and a canvass of the situation is now being made in reply to the queries from Ottawa.

The Forty-Ninth Parallel

An interesting and thought-provoking editorial article appeared recently in a popular magazine which circulates extensively throughout Canada and the United States. Its subject was the forty-ninth parallel across the world. The people of the North American continent regard it as an imaginary line which marks the boundary between the United States and Canada, but, says this magazine editor, the wise ones of the earth regard it as something more than a hair line on the earth's globe. It is, he says, the world's line of destiny.

Elaborating his theme he first directs attention to the fact that in America this invisible international boundary line is a line of peace. No towering fortifications dot its length; no jealousies are pent up along its borders; no racial hatreds batter its boundaries. For more than one hundred years it has been a line of peace, a magnificent contradiction of the Old World's barbaric philosophy that two neighboring countries cannot long exist without strife.

But tracing the course of the forty-ninth parallel around the globe, he finds that the symbol of peace in North America becomes the blood-drenched line of strife through Europe and Asia, cleaving through the very heart of the world's worst trouble zones. He continues:

"The 'line of peace,' upon spanning the Pacific, marks the frontier of Asia's power-mongering; the northern boundary of Manchukuo. On one side the armies of the Soviet maintain their well armed vigil. On the other Japan bides her time, the impudent state that typifies her first triumphant toe-hold on the mainland of Asia."

"Travel with the 'line of peace' across the flux and change of the new Red Russia and note its sinister significance as it pierces the inner core of European turmoil! It traverses the Polish Corridor, constant source of statesmen's uneasy slumber; flanks Austria's troubled boundaries; bisects a re-armed Germany; skirts the fringe of France at the most jealous point of national pride, historic Alsace-Lorraine; tops the rims of armored steel that mark Belgium's sullen frontiers; then wings the Atlantic for its more pacific mission on this continent."

And he asks why should this 'line of peace' assume such a devilish personality in its travel round the globe, and finds the answer in the character of the nations it touches rather than in the nature of the line itself.

All of which is true. In North America the two adjoining nations are peopled by those who speak a common language and who, although there has come a great intermingling of many races, still trace their main descent to one racial source and have proved their ability to, in large measure, assimilate those newcomers of many races and all have largely forgotten, or dropped, the old animosities, suspicions, jealousies and hatreds of by-gone centuries which are nourished and kept alive in the countries of the Old World.

America is fortunate in this, and stands as an object lesson to all other lands. This being so, we have been as good neighbors as we ought to have been; have taken full advantage of and reaped all the benefit that should have been ours as a result of our preferred position? True, we have kept the peace in a physical sense that we have refrained from war, and the insatiate folly of building up huge armaments one against the other is the false assumption that only through such so-called "preparedness" can peace be maintained.

But the forty-ninth parallel across North America is not quite the frontier. You might well have been to the advancement and benefit of people living on both sides of it. There are no forts, but there are all too many legislative barriers imposed across its entire length by both countries, barriers on the one side being duplicated by similar barriers on the other side.

We build our roads on both sides to meet and merge at the boundary line; we construct our railways to the same gauge in order that trains may move without pause from one country to the other, without transshipment of passengers or goods; the ether waves flow uninterruptedly across the line carrying radio messages to and fro, and this is true of the telegraph and telephone; our books and newspapers and magazines, our automobiles, cross and re-cross; our mails move without restraint or loss of time; our trades unions are international in their character; so, too, are our fraternal societies and service clubs; our sporting organizations vie with each other on common fields.

Being so favored, and having done so much to promote our common interests in so many ways, and having developed an international friendliness unknown elsewhere, and having utilized all that science and invention has bestowed in order to promote this fine and mutually advantageous intercourse, why have we proceeded to erect artificial barriers to check and stop the flow of trade which all these other agencies have been perfected to encourage and develop? The people of both countries are deemed to be highly intelligent; they are the equals ofomatic asylums. Then why have they not been able to adapt themselves to a change of system which they have spent untold millions of money and energy to encourage?

There is only one answer, and that answer is to be found in the cupidity of men individually and collectively, on both sides of the "line of peace." Nationalistic and, northward, of this great continent should be the complement of and to the south half of the continent. Provinces with their resources are the natural complement of the Atlantic seaboard States. Quebec and Ontario are the complement of the Central States; the Prairie Provinces are the complement of the middle western States right down to the gulf; British Columbia, ... the complement of the Pacific Coast. Yet puny and unable to do the picture and, as a result, has made a good many of things throughout the whole realm of trade and commerce, finance and industry.

The forty-ninth parallel across North America is a splendid object lesson to all nations except in this one respect. Let these two great peoples do the sensible thing and set another object lesson for and provide leadership to a world now suffering because of the wholesale destruction of international trade.

Peaty Of Color

If it's a color you want, says the Edmonton Journal, a new "dictionary" just published by the British color council, ought to fill the bill. With 220 shades given in color and supplied each with a name, it should now be possible to "match" a stocking or a bit of wool for your wife or even to give an exact description of the most variegated of sunsets.

Would Conserve Moisture

Immediate international action to save Western Canada from the extreme drought damage was held necessary by Sheriff Mclennan McGraw of Brandon, when he returned from a 3,000 mile motor trip through the prairie provinces. He recommended damming of rivers until they hold the normal running flow of an average crop year.

Richest Street in World

Shops Of Curio Dealers in Delhi, India, Contain Many Treasures

What is the richest street in the world? Without taking into account the environs of the Stock Exchange and Wall Street, where uncounted fortunes change hands, the little-known Chandni Chowk in Delhi has substantial claims. It has often been referred to as the richest street in Asia, and, unlike our own commercial thoroughfares, the greater part of its wealth is there for all to see. But many are the treasures which are hidden away in secret recesses of the shops of curio dealers and jewelers in this picturesque street. One of the dealers, the walls of whose establishment are covered with letters of appointment from Highnesses and Excellencies of all descriptions, has manufactured countless wonderful golden and jeweled embroideries for crowned heads and ruling princes. He was responsible for the historic peacock gown, costing no less than one thousand pounds, which the late Lady Curzon wore at the Durbar Ball, attended by four thousand guests in the Delhi Fort in 1908. Here also are all the riches of the embroidery merchants, whose cloths and cloaks, scintillating with costly ornaments, are not only intended for reigning princes, but for State officials. Here, too, are the carvers of ivory, and the traveller can see them exhibiting their skill in evolving delicate figures and animals from solid blocks of ivory, sawn from elephants' tusks.

WAS CONSTIPATED FOR 30 YEARS

Woman's Long Search For a Remedy

The trouble with most remedies for constipation, as this woman found, is that they only temporary relief. Having at last found a permanent remedy, she writes to tell us about it.

"For upwards of 30 years I was a victim of acute constipation. I tried practically everything that it was possible to find, salves, enemas, etc., in this case, and every new remedy I tried helped for a day or two—after that I was just as bad as ever. Three months ago I took my first taste of Kruschen Salts. I am now regular, since, and every morning so long as I live, my first duty upon rising is to take Kruschen Salts. I honestly feel a difference in myself. I sleep better at night, and my friends remark how well I am looking. My only regret is that I didn't try Kruschen salts years ago."

Kruschen Salts is Nature's recipe for maintaining a healthy body. It contains six salts in Krocine, stimulate the bowels to smooth, regular action. Your system is thus kept clear of those impurities which, allowed to accumulate, lower the whole tone of the system.

Four Aviators Left Plane When Trouble Developed

"I just came down by parachute—where am I?" was the query a started motorist got on the highway near Guildford, England, when he was stopped by an aviator waving a flashlight.

The aviator was one of three officers who had bailed out of a bombing plane at a height of 2,000 feet in the darkness. He got into the car and they went to look for the others.

A hundred yards farther on the car was stopped by another flashlight. Then a third light was seen again in the field. It was that of the pilot, who had bailed out when the machine, which apparently experienced engine trouble, was only 500 feet up. None of the four was hurt.

Might Outshine Sun

Scientists Tell of Heat Contained In Arc Light Carbon

The hottest known thing on earth, we are told, is the burning carbon of an arc light. It is so hot that volatile mist forms in the incandescent crater, a fog of pure carbon vapor.

Formerly this fog was thought to be liquid carbon, but a recent report to the American Chemical Society concludes that carbon does not pass through a liquid stage in turning from solid to gas, at least that it does not at atmospheric pressure.

This may be a reason why diamonds have been so impossible for man to make, says the report, for diamonds apparently are the product of a liquid form of carbon.

But if diamonds cannot be produced from carbon, more heat and light can, it is hoped. Three Cleveland scientists who have been measuring the heat of the carbon are declared that "under the right conditions, and with a little further chemical aid" arcs can be made to burn with a brilliant brightness slightly greater than that of the sun.

This would be a novel development; indeed, the creation of an artificial light brighter than the sun! Sun almost disappears almost at that of the stars.

It would be a novel development; indeed, the creation of an artificial light brighter than the sun! Sun almost disappears almost at that of the stars.

Molaison, a French chemist, in 1893 was successful in producing a small quantity of the gems by heating charcoal with iron to a very high temperature in an electric furnace. The mixture was then cooled very quickly. A coating of iron was rapidly formed on the outside, but at the centre the cooling was slower, and a few very small clear and black diamonds were found. Rubies and other gems have also been made synthetically, although not with great success.

Diamonds are measured by carats, a unit of weight which is equivalent to three grains troy weight. The largest diamond ever found was the "Cullinan" which was mined in South Africa. This stone originally weighed 3,205 1/2 carats, but it was later cut into smaller stones.

Strange School In Cairo

Police Find Place Where Boys Are Taught To Beg

Police of Cairo, Egypt, have unearthed what they declare to be a school for beggars at which 110 small boys were taught the latest methods of that art. It was found following the arrest of a beggar of a ten-year-old boy who had been missing from his home for several weeks. The boy said that he was playing in the street when a smartly-dressed Egyptian offered to take him to his home and give him good food. The boy was taught how to beg, then detailed to a "beat" in the city. The police arrested the tutor and more than 100 children, most of whom had been anxiously sought by their parents. It is estimated the boys collected a total of $50 a day.

In Reaching Danger Point

Many persons seem to think that the spending possibilities of the Government are limitless, but they lose sight of the fact that every dollar appropriated for public purposes has to come from the taxpayer. What they also forget is that there is a danger line in taxation which is reached when the levies become so oppressive that they cannot be collected. —Philadelphia Inquirer.

YOUR LIVER'S MAKING YOU FEEL OUT OF SORTS

Wake up your Liver Bile

—No Calomel needed

When you feel blue, depressed, sour on the stomach, or when you feel tired, take two daily pounds of liquid bile into your bowels. Digestion and elimination are helped along by this. It also helps you feel refreshed, gives you a clear complexion, removes freckles, and makes you feel strong.

Revolutionary Effort Is Made To Overthrow Government Of Spain

Madrid.—A violent revolutionary effort to overthrow the government of Spain seemed to be spreading through the land as the young republic counted its dead in the fighting so far at between 70 to 75.

Reports of fresh clashes and more dead were being received over crippled lines of communication since the government officially placed the number of dead at 50.

It was estimated 1,500 demonstrators, many of them desperate revolutionaries, had been arrested.

In Madrid alone 500 have been beaten off to police stations. Several hundred were wounded.

It was reported extremists destroyed the Northern railway line in Corberia to prevent the mobilization of troops.

Along the railway line connecting the Basque provinces with Asturias, rebels seized the train and ran it up and down several miles of line which they had seized.

Troops finally managed to blockade a tunnel, stopping the train. Fifty revolutionaries aboard were arrested.

Some regions, however, reported the revolutionary fervor flaming in central and northern cities had not taken root.

Bilbao police raided a convent formerly Jesuit property but now belonging to the government, and found about 100 powerful bombs ready for use, 20 pistols and a supply of ammunition.

In the nearby town of Bermeo extremists raised a red flag and formally declared the existence of a Soviet republic. Civil guards promptly suppressed this movement.

The new government of Premier Alejandro Lerroux, in office only 24 hours, was watching the situation closely and issued orders that, under martial law, all extremists carrying weapons should be shot.

Madrid citizens hurried to their homes as the government declared it could no longer be responsible for the lives of those on the streets.

Scattered reports indicated the revolutionary strike had almost paralyzed commerce, industry and transportation at many places in Spain.

Relief Lists Lower

Bright Report On Unemployment Reduction From B.C.

Victoria.—Dropping steadily since March, British Columbia relief registrations included 29,000 persons recently, the lowest of any total in the last two years. E. W. Griffiths, provincial relief administrator, said consolidation of old and new relief lists was about complete with 10,000 listed in provincial areas and 19,000 in municipalities, exclusive of dependents.

This is a reduction of 51,000 unemployed registered for relief in March last, a total that declined steadily to 31,600 in July, and now to 29,000.

Sale Of Munitions Is Branded As The World's Greatest Racket

Washington.—Manufacture and sale of munitions was branded by Senator Gerald Nye, North Dakota Republican, as the world's greatest "racket," which he declared was leading the world straight toward another war.

"War and preparation for it," he said in an address, "is in many respects not much more than incorporated murder, with the makers of the machinery of war the incorporators." The chairman of the U.S. senate munitions investigation committee suggested nationalization of munitions manufacture and confiscatory income taxes in time of war as means of preventing war.

New Farm Station

Will Locate Experimental Farm In Melfort Area

Ottawa.—The government has decided to develop an experimental farm in the constituency of Melfort, Sask., it was stated at the department of agriculture. The farm will comprise 640 acres.

The farm will be located in clay-bush country, and will be planned to assist farmers in such districts of the prairies. The other experimental farm in Saskatchewan will soon after meet the needs of people farming on the open prairie, but it is said there are no experimental farms in the province dealing with conditions met with in the clay-bush area.

Land has already been acquired for the farm and buildings are now being erected. It will be in operation next year. Livestock and forage-crop production will be the focus in the experimental work conducted there just as farms in other parts of Saskatchewan deal more largely with the problems of the grain grower.

Located in an old settled district which has not hitherto had the benefit of an experimental farm, the project is expected to be of assistance to farmers working under conditions such as prevail in the Carrot River valley.

Ontario Schools Plan To Teach Agriculture

Munister Announces Subject Will Be Put On Study Course

Toronto.—Hon. Duncan Marshall, Ontario minister of agriculture, announced plans were being made by the departments of agriculture and education to place agriculture on the public school curriculum. He told the Young Men's Canadian Club in an address that he had reached an understanding with Hon. Dr. L. J. Simpson, minister of education, regarding teaching of scientific agriculture in all public schools.

"I live for the next two or three years it will be a reality," the minister said. "Agriculture will be dealt with in a scientific way in every public school in Ontario. Some knowledge of the soil will be given to pupils, and they will be made to understand the basic importance of agriculture and what it has to offer those who go to live on the land."

He maintained agriculture had been treated too haphazardly in Ontario schools. When present plans were put into effect agriculture would rank in importance with any subject taught, he said.

Remembrance Day

Will Be Observed This Year On Sunday, Nov. 11th

Ottawa.—Remembrance Day falling this year on Sunday (Nov. 11) will be celebrated on that day so far as the department of secretary of state is concerned. In the case of statutory holidays falling on Sunday the provision is made that the following Monday will be observed for business purposes. Remembrance Day does not fall into that category.

Any departure from the provisions in order to provide a business holiday on the following Monday will be a matter for local ruling.

Asks Definite Announcement

Australia Wants To Know Britain's Objectives Regarding Agriculture

Bradford, England.—The suggestion the British government should definitely announce its objectives in regard to British agriculture—and the part that imports from the Dominions is to finally take—was made by Stanley Bruce, Australia's high commissioner in London.

Mr. Bruce was making his annual address to members of the Bradford Textile Society.

He suggested that in the interests of the mother country herself some guiding principles should be laid down, making it possible to formulate a concrete policy of inter-imperial co-operation for the promotion of reciprocal trade.

The British government's campaign to stimulate domestic agriculture has already had important repercussions on exports from the Dominions, "standstill" agreements having been made regarding meat' and cattle exports, while a similar agreement for eggs is under discussion.

Health Insurance

Need For This Plan Is Advanced In British Columbia

Victoria.—Need of health insurance as a measure to meet the growing financial crisis confronting British Columbia hospitals was stressed at the 17th annual convention of the B.C. Hospital Association here.

Delegates decided to present a committee of three to co-operate with the provincial minister of health, Hon. G. M. Weir, in drafting any health insurance plan as placed before the government.

Dr. Harvey Agnew, secretary of the department of hospital service, Canadian Medical Association, recommended interprovincial recognition of workmen's compensation board cases at provincial boundary points.

Window Washer Fights Hawk

Wins Battle With Huge Bird In Air

Chicago.—A man and a hawk fought a brief, bitter battle 624 dizzying feet above the world's fair, and the man was the victor.

As William Weber glistened his hands as window-washer on the west tower of the fair's skyscraper, his chick hawk attacked him with beak, talons and powerful wings. Only his safety belt prevented Weber from plunging to sudden death. Weber fought back with all his tools and swinging fast until a well-directed blow sent the marauder soaring away.

Crop Payment Higher

Calgary.—The initial payment of the Alberta wheat pool on the 1934 wheat crop has been boosted 15 cents a bushel to 50 cents. Better prices and a generally improved demand resulted in the decision to increase the payment from 35 cents a bushel, which was paid on the 1933 crop, to the half dollar mark, officials said here.

Withdraws From Race

Sydney, Australia.—Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith, noted Australian aviator, withdrew from the England-to-Australia air race. After starting a flight to England he discovered defects in his machine which he was unable to repair in time to arrive for the start on Oct. 10.

Cattle Marketed

Winnipeg.—About 2,000 head of under-fed cattle from the drought areas of Manitoba and Saskatchewan have been marketed through Winnipeg abattoirs since the first loads arrived September 21, according to a checkup at local packing plants.

Plane Crash Kills Seven

Machine Bound For Paris Falls Into English Channel

Folkestone, Eng.—An aeroplane with seven occupants crashed into the misty English channel three miles from shore on a projected flight to Le Bourget airfield, France, killing all of them. Two of the passengers were women.

The cause of the crash probably will remain a mystery since no one witnessed it, although the captain of the German cargo steamer Leader heard the roar of the aeroplane as the plane plunged into the sea.

The cross-channel steamer Leader was near the scene at the time. It picked up five bodies and brought them to Folkestone. There was a heavy rain at the time of the crash.

It was learned a plane, without giving its identity, other than giving the fact it was a S.O.S. Croydon airman, had left an airfield near Romford, Essex, northeast of London, for Paris.

Reception For Prince

Duke Of Gloucester Receives Great Ovation In Australia

Fremantle, Australia.—Australia gave the Duke of Gloucester a rousing reception when the third son of the king and queen arrived here aboard H.M.S. Sussex. An aeroplane circled overhead and the waterway was crowded with pleasure craft.

Huge crowds gave the royal visitor a great ovation as he drove the 13 miles to Perth, where his first public function in Australia was a visit to the war memorial where he deposited a wreath.

Later in the day he opened the Perth Royal Agricultural show.

Cattle Marketed

Winnipeg.—Until the actual consumers want the wheat, the Canadian government agency will not sell its holdings, declared John I. McFarland, general manager of the Canadian wheat pools' central selling agency.

The agency has been supporting the market since the fall movement of wheat from Western Canada's farms started and is continuing to give support, Mr. McFarland declared as he broke silence to attack "malicious" gossip resulting from his suggestion selling operations on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange be investigated.

He emphatically denied rumors the Canadian government was dumping its holdings on the market. The rumors had circulated throughout the leading grain exchanges of the world. "I generally prefer to disregard gossip," Mr. McFarland added, "but in this instance and especially at this time when farmers are marketing their wheat, I feel it is no time for silence."

"It should be remembered," said Mr. McFarland, "that the fundamental reason for government purchasing and stabilization operations is to provide a market at the best possible price level. To this end, the

Labor Party In Britain Enunciates Their Policy

Southport, England.—In the event of war involving Britain, or immediate threat of war, the Labor party will call a special convention to determine Labor's attitude.

The annual conference of the party reached this conclusion after rejecting a proposal advanced by pacifists that Labor should be bound to call a general strike if war threatened.

Earlier the moderate convener showed their supremacy over the party with which the party, when a series of amendments to the draft platform, which would have called for immediate radical socialist steps by any future Labor government, were rejected on a vote of 2,146,000 to 206,000.

On the war and peace resolutions Arthur Henderson, general secretary of the party and president of the World Disarmament Conference, explained that "never will Labor agree that Britain herself should resort to war or to help any other nation commit that crime."

"If any government should ever seek to involve Britain in war," he added, "it would be opposed by the whole Labor government."

The party approved a resolution expressing deep satisfaction at the entry of Russia to the League of Nations, Mr. Henderson declaring the entry was motivated by a desire to maintain peace.

May Lower Interest Rates

Farmers May Profit By Reduction To Farm Loan Board

Ottawa.—First mortgage money may be available to Canadian loan board borrowers at as low as 5½ per cent as a result of an order-in-council secured by Hon. E. N. Rhod, minister of finance, and the treasury empowered to lend money to the board at four per cent interest where a rate of five per cent formerly was charged.

The order-in-council will permit the minister of finance to purchase four per cent bonds of the Canadian farm loan board up to a maximum of $10,000,000, in installments of $100,000.

Pension Administration

Vancouver.—The controversial question of pensions for war veterans in Canada is adjusting itself, Brigadier General Alex Ross of Yorkton, Sask., president of the Canadian Legion, declared on his arrival here en route to Australia to attend the seventh annual convention of the British Empire Service League. General Ross stated he is convinced satisfactory progress is being made in improving the administration of pensions.

Churchill, Man.—Marking its most successful season, navigation closed Oct. 4th out of Churchill, Manitoba's northern seaport.

The Brandon and the Ashworth, with cargoes for European points, sailed and no other boats are scheduled to dock here between now and October 10, official date for the close of navigation.

Fourteen ships came into the three-year-old port to load cargoes and sail for distant cities, marking the greatest number of vessels that had entered the port in any season since it first opened. To the Daigleid, the first ship to open and close the port, the Ashworth sailing 45 minutes later, the Brandon had started its trip toward the Atlantic ocean.

During the short shipping season, exports included 4,000,000 bushels of wheat, 4,200 tons of mill-stuff, 560 head of cattle, 2,000,000 feet of lumber, eight tons of honey and two small shipments of household goods. Cattle and honey were exported for the first time in large quantities this season. Household shipments were exported for the first time.

After a morning of rain at the Ashworth and Brandon were being loaded, the sun came breaking through the clouds just before the hour for leaving dock. A tall wind came from the south to assist them on their journey through the straits where the Dominion government ice-breaker, the N. B. McLean, is expected to escort them to the Atlantic. Weather forecasts promised a good trip through the straits.

As the boats sailed, Churchill's concentrated activity came to an early close. Freight was brought in and shipped to prairie points. Wheat, cattle and honey were brought from many points on the prairies and moved outward. The wheat export was greater than last season's figure when 10 ships carried 2,530,000 bushels.

Lower Interest Rates

Banker Believes Rates Will Remain Low For Number Of Years

Vancouver.—Low interest rates for the debts of Canada, federal, provincial and municipal, are imperative and inevitable in the opinion of Frank A. Rolph, president of the Imperial Bank of Canada, who arrived here recently.

"Public debt interest rates are going down at present and I expect them to stay down for a number of years," the president stated.

"People can't afford to pay the high interest they have in the past," he continued. "The lowering of rates will be reflected in provincial and municipal financing, although they can't expect to get quite as low rates as the Dominion. Of course there is a point beyond which reduction can't go. The general trend will be governed by governmental action."

Denial That Canadian Government Is Dumping Wheat On Market

Winnipeg.—Until the actual consumers want the wheat, the Canadian government agency will not sell its holdings, declared John I. McFarland, general manager of the Canadian wheat pools' central selling agency.

The agency has been supporting the market since the fall movement of wheat from Western Canada's farms started and is continuing to give support, Mr. McFarland declared as he broke silence to attack "malicious" gossip resulting from his suggestion selling operations on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange be investigated.

He emphatically denied rumors the Canadian government was dumping its holdings on the market. The rumors had circulated throughout the leading grain exchanges of the world. "I generally prefer to disregard gossip," Mr. McFarland added, "but in this instance and especially at this time when farmers are marketing their wheat, I feel it is no time for silence."

"It should be remembered," said Mr. McFarland, "that the fundamental reason for government purchasing and stabilization operations is to provide a market at the best possible price level. To this end, the government agency has been supporting prices ever since the fall movement began, and is continuing such support."

In two days the Winnipeg wheat prices slumped six cents following suggestions for investigation of selling here and at Liverpool, Buenos Aires and Chicago. Such dumping, said Mr. McFarland, was unwarranted, and he added, "it must be bought back some day."

"Let me reiterate," Mr. McFarland said, "that despite recent pressure on the price structure from abroad, the fundamental conditions of the world grain market are unchanged, and before this cereal season is over all our surplus will be required for food and for seed."

Mr. McFarland pointed out 95,000,000 bushels of the Western Canadian wheat crop had been marketed to date. "This is very close to one-half of the deliverable wheat crop," he said, "and at a very large percentage of the remainder has been damaged by frost, rain or snow and is not in fit condition to thresh. The great bulk of the wheat remaining on farms, therefore, is low grade milling wheat or in the 'feed' class."

NOTES AND COMMENTS

YOU'RE dead wrong if you think the world owes you a living. You came into the world without your consent, and nature compels you to fight your way as soon as you are old enough to strike out. The old saying that there's a field marshal's baton in every soldier's knapsack sounds good, but if every one was of that type, there wouldn't be any "Tommies" to go over the top. Endowed with what mental or physical capacity you possess, do the best you can. All can't be masters, but all can be men. "So pull yourselves together and never say die, for things will be better in the sweet bye-and-bye." That was a popular song fifty years or more ago, and the first hundred years maybe is the hardest.

LEGAL tangles, Hauptman to be examined by mental experts, extradition obstructions, and many other hurdles in the path of bringing to trial the man suspected of kidnapping and murdering the Lindbergh baby, cause impatience in the minds of people of those countries where once a man is caught in the dragnet the wheels of justice move swiftly and without bally hoo in sensational publications.

"WONDERFUL Words of Life" sung the group of Salvationists in an open-air service on Monday. The thought arose, if we were all as enthusiastic in our daily tasks as the Army is in trying to turn people to Christ, how happier the world would be. There is inspiration in their example,—also their singing and playing. The late General William Booth created a living monument to his work for the sinner and the outcast, and devotion to his God.

NEWSPAPERS give liberally of news space and reporters and editors spend time in writing reports of local events. They do it from a sense of duty to their readers and to make the paper interesting. At times advance publicity is of greater value than paid advertising, which is taken advantage of by some, who do not play the game, in withholding paid advertising which they might place, or placing in sheets which do not give free publicity or write a report following the event. Be fair to your local newspaper.

MACKENZIE KING claims the Liberals should be running the country, because of their victory in four by-elections. The average elector who is not extremely partisan sees little difference between the two main parties. Each strives to give efficient government and each makes similar mistakes. Premier Bennett is more forceful than the Liberal leader, and does not care tuppence if he is the next Premier or not. He has served his country and a rest from the heat and burden of the day would not come amiss. How many are Liberals or Conservatives except by early influence, heredity and environment? The average man has a vote, he believes he forms his own opinions, but 90 per cent. follow opinions made for them. Often we are told the country will go to the "bow wows" if such and such a party is elected, yet no matter who is elected, the country muddles along in the same old way, and Canadian National deficits grow bigger and bigger every day.

BE READY when the enumerators call at your home or place of business to register your name on the lists which will form the basis of the voters' list for the coming Federal election. Be sure your name is on the list—you have no one to blame but yourself if it is omitted.

Straight Talk

A merchant who expects his home town people to deal with him should set the example by advertising in his home town newspaper. Actions speak louder than anything else.

Interesting Notes on Coleman Girl Guides

Reorganization of the Coleman Girl Guides has been made necessary from the large number of recruits. After much consideration Mrs R. P. Borden, District Commissioner, in conjunction with Father Dunbar, has decided to organize Catholic church groups.

Miss A. Yuill will continue as captain of 1st Coleman Co., with Miss W. Dunlop as lieutenant, and the Catholic group will be 2nd Coleman Co. with Mrs J. Devine as captain.

The Brownies have similarly been divided. Mrs Williams is Brown Owl of Pack 1, with Miss Grace McKinnon as Tawny Owl. The Catholic group, Pack 2 has Mrs. Ryan as Brown Owl, with Miss A. Nicholas as Tawny Owl. The association very much regrets losing Mrs. Frank Graham and Mrs. Edgar Reid as Brownie leaders. Their work has been most excellent.

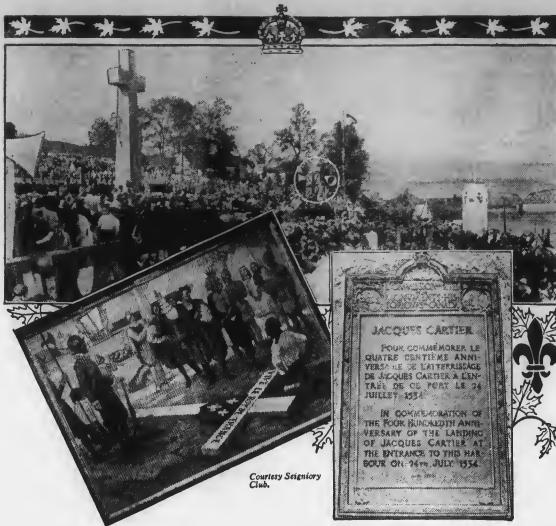

The 1st Coleman Co. will celebrate their third birthday on Oct. 21.

The leaders of each group are combining their efforts to make a joint meeting of all branches. In 1931 when the company was organized, there were 13 members. Now there have been Brownies and Rangers organized and the total membership in all branches is 100. The Brownies go up to Guides at the age of 11, and the Guides go up to Rangers at 16. A special ceremony for 1st class Brownies is "Flying Up" to Guides. There are six Brownies ready for this ceremony, and two Guides ready for "Going Up" to Rangers. The Ranger Co. is open to all girls and young women over 16. Mrs Borden and Mrs. C. Devine, the Ranger leaders, will welcome any new members. Miss K. Milley has kindly consented to give the Rangers a class in physical training and folk dancing, which is being looked forward to with pleasure.

A Fitting Tribute to Two Great Discoveries.

BY a curious coincidence the unveiling of the bust of Jacques Cartier, the gift of the French Government, on September first, on the Montreal Bridge which now bears his name, commemorated not alone the great discoverer of Canada, but also the Sixtieth Anniversary of Alexander Graham Bell's discovery of the telephone. The same system of address was used that the vast crowd of spectators might hear what was said. This was installed by National Sound Services, using the latest developments of the combined telephone and radio laboratories of the Northern Electric Company, thus marking a double epoch of Canadian discovery.

In the picture are seen left, bust of Jacques Cartier, a general view of the ceremony and center foreground, two of the pigeons which were released by boy scouts, seen in circle, signifying the harmonious cooperation between the four nations, England, France, United States and Canada. Inset, the speaker's stand with Mayor Houde seated behind the speaker, the horns and microphones of the public address system.

Here and There

What a practical newspaperman finds interesting on a cruise around the world in the Canadian Pacific flagship Empress of Britain can be counted upon to capture the imagination of armchair homes. Last winter Alan Maurice Irwin, a Montreal writer, made the cruise. He saw intriguing pictures illustrating peculiar and strange customs. So he sat down and wrote a book which is illustrated by photographs he made with his own camera filled with amazing insights upon humanity. Now, under the comprehensive title "—and ships—and sailing," the book is in Macmillan's fall line.

That United States investors' capital would flow into Canada in even greater volume is the prediction of John R. Hasle, of the office of the New York Office in Chicago, speaking before the Life Underwriters Association of Toronto, at the Royal York Hotel recently.

The cream of American baseball players is scheduled to sail from Vancouver October 20, aboard the Canadian flagship Empress of Japan, for an all-star tour of Japan, China and the Philippines. Judge and Mrs. Kenneth Mountain Lands may also be party to the party.

Photographed in a group for the first time since they were "shot" on their arrival in Canada a few years ago, His Excellency the Governor-General, Her Excellency and their elder son and daughter were shown aboard the Empress of Britain just before Lady Bessborough and her son and daughter sailed for Europe recently.

Appropriation of one dollar was made recently by the Vancouver City Council for the nominal price for the purchase from the Canadian Pacific Railway of 1/4 acre of right-of-way property at Kitasolo Beach, near the British Columbia city.

The first McIntosh apples of the season for distribution throughout Western Canada from Victoria to Halifax were put recently over Canadian Pacific lines in trains of 45 cars. The fruit is reported to be in wonderful condition and the product will maintain the great reputation that British Columbia has won for its apples.

Under the Canadian Pacific five years' free scholarship award to McGill University, Reside McCallum, Andrew David W. Reid, of Winnipeg, and Albert Grant Aspin, of lethbridge, all sons of company employees, are named as this year's winners. The scholars may compete every year up to five years if the holders are entitled to full standing in the next highest year.

There is very clear evidence of a return to prosperity in Canada due to a greater feeling of confidence, reflected in the declaration of Lord Ilford, editor of more British trade papers than any other published in the United Kingdom, interviewed aboard the Empress of Britain.

From every state of the Union and every province of Canada came delegations to the 11th communication of the Sovereign Grand Lodge of the Independent Order of Oddfellows assembled in the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, recently. They were greeted by the Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario and the Mayor of Toronto.

THE JOURNAL IS TAKEN HOME

FATHER sits down and leisurely reads it, news, ads. and everything.

MOTHER also reads it, particularly the ads., from which she takes particular note of the store messages and makes mental notes of what she will buy.

THE BOYS AND GIRLS read it, and as in many cases the local weekly newspaper is the first paper they read, their early impressions are based on what they read in the home town newspaper.

THEREFORE, isn't it well worth while to have a neat display advertisement in your local weekly paper, which is read by the entire family in the comfort of their home.

ISN'T it the best way to develop goodwill among those with whom you do business, and moreover, doesn't it reflect the enterprise of your store and your willingness to co-operate with your weekly newspaper.

HANDWRITING REVEALS CHARACTER

By LAWRENCE HIBBERT
(Grapho-Analyst)

(All Rights Reserved)

(Editor's Note: Considerable interest has been aroused in these articles, written by a well-known handwriting expert. Have you had your handwriting analyzed? See the announcement at the foot of the article.)

A young lady from a small town in Saskatchewan sent me a letter, and enclosed a specimen of the handwriting of her sweetheart. Part of her letter follows: "In sending you my own handwriting, and also that of my sweetheart, I would like you to advise me, I am very much perplexed. I love my sweetheart very dearly, and I have always thought he reciprocated my affection. But I am beginning to doubt whether he does, and whether he is the right type of man for me. I love him very much, but would rather finish things off in a friendly way. I would like you to advise me, that to have a lot of trouble in unengaged love affairs. We are engaged to be married, but he keeps putting off making a date for the wedding. Now I have been told that he goes out with other girls. He admits this, but begs me to forgive him, and assures me that when we are married, he will have nothing more to do with other girls. The same, however, has been my telling me that his business is much too insecure for us to contemplate marriage now. Please advise me, and tell me the truth, whether it is good or bad."

I am sorry for my correspondent, but am inclined to believe that she is sensible enough to realize, as she is a young girl, that it is better to effect a cure now than make a great deal more trouble and unhappiness for herself later on.

The new apparatus is a short wave receiving set capable of clear television and within a radius of 50 miles and receiving pictures 4½ by six feet in size.

Herr Boehm, who has been working in Vienna for ten years on his invention, left for New York to superintend the manufacture of his television set. Details of its construction are kept secret until the apparatus has been placed on the market.

Judge: "What were you doing in that place when it was raided?" Lockwood: "I was making a bolt for the house."

And there is a streak of dishonesty in him. This, coupled with the very definite indications of deceit, tells me that he will be unhappy if he continues to go with her.

And, speaking of the practical, she is not getting any younger. She is losing her opportunity of making a good match with a man who may become fond of her, and make her a nature to do so.

Do you want your handwriting analyzed? Do you wish to know the character that is shown in it? If you are in love, is it with a person suitable for you? And other revelations will be made from your handwriting. Send a letter in your normal handwriting, and state birthdate (in every case), and send with 10¢ postage. If you enclose more than one specimen to be analyzed, please enclose extra postage. Replies will be mailed as soon as possible, but probably take two weeks.

Taking Finger Prints

Changes Of Duplication Seem To Be Very Remote

One to 1,000,000,000,000,000,000,000,000 specimens. This is the chance that your finger prints are similar to those of somebody else.

This was announced as J. Edgar Hoover, investigative chief of the U.S. department of justice, conducted reporters through a tour of the department's evidence laboratory.

The fingerprint collection is the largest in the world numbering 4,000,000 specimens. Nearly 7,000 police agencies send in 2,500 prints a year for identification. Forty-seven per cent of these are found to be of persons whose finger impressions are on file.

Chemical studies show that trees 11 million years ago had the same chemical constituents as trees growing to-day.

Recently the following testimonial was received by a patent medicine concern: "For nine years I was totally deaf and after using your ear salve for only ten days I heard from my brother in Nebraska."

THE CHRISTIAN AND HIS BIBLE

Golden text:

Explanations And Comments

How to Study the Bible:

When a man insists that every statement in the Bible is to be taken literally, true, he outrages our sense of fact.

That is not so. On the other hand, we see many allusions to the Bible as "allusions," including the fables, tales, a cast-off collection of literary old clothes, he outrages both our sense of reverence and our sense of intelligence. Not, however, does the thoughtful people of the world have been using this book for centuries as a book of final values for all who would live nobly.

The only basis for an enduring faith in the Bible is sound, accurate, thorough knowledge. Let men study to show themselves approved unto God, who says that none can stand before him that is not clean. Those who truly divide the word of truth will learn to discriminate between which is merely local, y, incidental in this literature, that is universal, eternal.

Let them learn that there is a record of the propagation which God made through the ages, the expression of a purpose chosen for the spiritual insight. It is a record of long, patient processes of mental and spiritual unfolding, stretching through thousands of years and thousands of years. We have this heavenly treasure in the earth vessel of a Hebrew civilization, and it takes shape, color, and odor from the vessel with which it comes. The more we learn to assimilate our knowledge of the Bible, the better we will be for those writings which are able to make men wise and good, and to furnish them thoroughly for all good works.

But coupled with that fearless, painstaking scholarship, which walks through the pages of Holy Writ with eyes open to the truth, let there also be a genuine reverence for this book as a message from the heart of God to the soul of man. "Let knowledge grow from more to more, but man's reverence for the divine unseen, for the infinite, for the unknown, and the hidden, between knowledge and devotion—they are the right and left hands of a common, competent agent in taking the Scriptures. We see Our Father, and we say amen."—Hildegard of Bingen. In like manner, let there be the blending of intimate knowledge with some reverence for the Bible and we shall have the Scripture given by the inspiration of God as a guide for instruction in righteousness."—Charles Reynolds Brown, in The Gospel for Main Street.

The SNAPSHOT GUILD

INSIDE THE HOUSE

Light for this living-room shot came from broad windows at the right. The day was almost dull but the camera got every detail in an exposure of only a few seconds.

Stairways almost always have rich picture possibilities. The stairs shown here have an unusual twist, which was capitalized by the snapshotter. But even the most "ordinary" of stairs can be made to look attractive by your striking and maneuvering with a camera.

If you're taking pictures of the inside of your home because of a vague notion that such pictures are difficult, banish that notion and get out your camera. Here are a few pointers that may help you in your first shots.

Find a quiet place, you will need to make time exposures. And for successful time exposures the camera must be absolutely steady. Use a tripod, if you have one, or mount the camera on some substantial support such as a table. Too, the camera must be level; otherwise doors and windows won't be properly straight up and down.

It is a good idea to place your camera so that you get only a little of the ceiling in the view-finder. There's more of interest nearer the secret of success lies in controlling the light reaching the various parts of the room to be pictured. To begin with, never point your camera directly at the window or at the sun.

The greatest amount of light is coming from the light behind or to the side of the camera. If, as sometimes happens, a sunny window is in a particular part of the house you want to take, you can eliminate glare by a very simple trick. Pull the shade of that window, with the window still open, and keep it down for an exposure long enough to give you the other features and details. Then, close the shutter and run the shade up to its normal position.

Now go back to the camera and, without changing the film or the camera's position, open the shutter again for a second longer.

It's a good idea to use a very slow shutter speed in taking indoor pictures, because you want detail in everything. Focus on a point about half-way between the camera and the far side of the room; then, when the lens is stopped down you will find that practically everything is sharp to the touch.

Avoid including large pieces of furniture in the foreground, lest they take up more space in the picture than they deserve.

Watch out for distracting reflections in mirrors or glass covered pictures. By putting a small wedge in the corner of a picture, thereby changing the angle of the glass, you can usually get rid of a reflection.

Exposure time will vary, of course, with the brilliance of the sunlight and the degree to which the window reflects it. On bright days, pictures in a predominantly light-colored room can be taken with an exposure of five or ten seconds.

On dull days, in dark rooms having only one window, you will need as much as five minutes, with the lens at f/16.

If you've never tried interiors, you'll find them plenty of fun and the results will surprise you with their excellence.

Presto-Pack has a hundred uses.

11 a.m. She prepares carrots and onions for dinner. She uses Canapar to wrap the carrots and onions separately. She wraps each vegetable in Canapar Cellophane, puts both in the oven pot, and cuts them open after they're done. The carrots and onions are richly delicious in their own juices and taste better than ever. She uses Canapar, too, "she says. "Fab won't buy anything else now. He's got the taste. Cooking in Canapar makes the meal more delicious and no odor escapes."

12 p.m. Her shelves need re-covering. She does that job with Handi-Roll, a 25-foot roll of paper. "Handi-Roll," she says, "is even so helpful that I can do it myself. Over the years I've wrapped parcels and dozens of other jobs that call for long sheets of paper."

SYNOPSIS

"You've fallen heir to a half-share in plenty of trouble," the lawyer told Gerald Keene. "The Broken Spur has been systematically robbing the ranch, and old Joe Carr, your partner, is drinking himself into ruin."

But Keene decided to go see what was happening for himself—just as Gerald Keene had done. He reached the Hour-Glass Ranch, but as Duro Stone, tenderfoot in a Montgomery Ward wildwest outfit.

Dad Keene, a portly fat and luckless prospector till now, is returning to tell Dustin and Spike Goddard, owners of the Broken Spur ranch, who had given great care to his discovery of a rich gold mine, about the swindling of the ore. He sees Broken Spur men rustling Hour-glass cattle and protests agains it.

ASK YOUR DOCTOR FIRST, MOTHER

Before You Give Your Child an Unknown Remedy to Take Every day, unthinkingly, mothers take the advice of unqualified persons—instead of their doctors'—on remedies for their children.

If they knew what the scientists know, they would never take this chance.

Doctors Say PHILLIPS'

For Your Child

For a moment silence held both men. They knew the old foolish legend of the Mother Lode and they knew, too, that old desert rats like old Kane, believed in it while vigorously protesting their disbelief; that foolish old tale that says that all gold is fermented and thrown out from a central body as the human heart sends blood to the distant parts of the body and that the tiny veins of gold, if found and traced back to their origin, will lead to the great Mother Lode where gold is made.

"Mother Lode hell," quoth Dustin hotly. "Where'd you find this? Is it from her?"

"Four days' travel even with them trained asses o' mine. Ever read yore Bible, Dustin? It's sure worth readin'. There's a lot o' good readin' in the Bible. It tells about a prophet named Saul. He was a peach, too. He was a kind of a prospector same as me. I'z burros got loose same as mine done. He went to trail 'em and he found a kingdom. I done the same. Mine got loose an' I followed 'em up Red Water canon. . . . Look here. . . ."

He fished futilely in his pocket, withdrew his hand and swore wildly. Then he slapped every pocket.

"I've done lost it," he said hoarsely. "I put down all the directions in my notebook of course. It don't make no real difference, though. I'll back them up if I have to, but I ain't like losin' a notebook that tells about it all. I know I had it just before I seen Gray an' Corse with the wagon."

"Maybe they found it," suggested Dustin.

"It won't help 'em none if they did, I reckon. But I'd sure like to have it back. It's got all my accounts with you gentlemen in it. It was up Red Water canon like I said. . . ."

"That's on Hour-glass land," said Dustin fiercely.

"Who knows it if I don't? That was when I seen the wagon. I was comin' back from huntin' my stray burros when I stumbled on a piece of good lookin' float. I put it in my pocket and went back to trace the vein. I found the vein on the hillside and located it and come back. I was aimin' to build me a fire and roast the ore to see what it was like. I had made all the entries in my notebook like as tell him what he's got. He wouldn't sell us a cup o' water to keep us from dyin' of thirst. Of course there's a way to get 'em. In fact I can think of two ways right now. We've got to get those mineral rights and get 'em quick—across the hillside for the Hour-glass finds out about 'em."

"Joe Carr don't even suspect any ore on his land," said Kai.

"So much the better," quoth Kai curiously. "You go on into the kitchen and get your supper, Dad," he said heartily. "We'll talk it over later. . . ."

He held his partner by the sleeve till old Kane disappeared into the kitchen. "Come on into the office, Spike," he said curtly. "I want to talk this over with you before old Dad gets back."

Spike nodded, shouted to the cook to bring some coffee to them in the office and followed Dustin into the room and closed the door.

Carr. I got him as good as sewed up in a sack with head and feet stickin' out. It's bigger than Carr, I'm afraid."

"Huh. You talk like a fool," said Spike sharply. "How kin you say you got old Carr sewed up in a sack when you dassened tie your pony to the trail? When you want to see that red-head git him. You not the owner of the Horse-Lode land to rights?" Huh. You make out to ride down to Seco to git the mail when there ain't no mail just 'cause you want to git another look at that red-headed Carr. You make me mad."

For just one brief moment Spike Goddard stood on the bare edge of red tragedy. He saw in his partner's eyes such a glare of utter hate that he fairly shrank back at what he saw. "For a full half minute Dustin stared at him fiercely; then he laughed. Spike drew a breath of relief.

"No use lookin' at me like you want to kill me," he said awkwardly. "I'm only tellin' you what all the Valley know."

"About what, you damned fool?" snapped Dustin. "Of course old Joe Carr and I did have a row some three years ago. That was when your old fashionedness got you caught messin' up with his cows. If I want to tie my horse to the Hour-glass track, I'll ask me man's permission. Get that? Put that in your pipe and smoke it."

"You will like hell," snarled Spike. "You'd be as welcome there as a ratler in a prairie dog's hole. . . ."

That was just the one remark needed. Dustin exploded.

"And any time I happen to want Dustin Carr, she'll come to heel and mind what I say and don't you forget it. . . ."

"I hear you. I heard a lot o' things I don't believe. That suit that you started over Soda Springs ain't any invitation to dinner at the Hour-glass."

"All right. Don't believe me then. There's more ways to reach a girl than by pettin' an' nekkin' as they call it now."

"I hear you. . . ."

only got to prove that I was the first to find it."

Dustin nodded and Spike too. They knew that anomaly of law that is not justice at all at times.

"All the same," said Dustin. "It makes if you like it. If Gray and Carr start a few cattle, that's one thing. If you like it, we'll steal a whole hillside full o' gold that's different. That's finance."

Kane swore gustily.

"Hour-glass or no Hour-glass," he said hotly, "I found the vein. I mean to folter that lead if it takes me plumb in to hell and I have to pan with sulphur water hot from hellfire."

"Old man Carr may be willin' to sell the mineral rights," said Goddard sarcastically.

"Don't be a fool. . . ."

Dustin's face was grave. "The minute you ask Carr about selling mineral rights, you as good as tell him what he's got. He wouldn't sell us a cup o' water to keep us from dyin' of thirst."

Still better, though, some far, compelling hands. For everyone, though, would leave his friends

And all the certitude of peace and honor.

To answer to the lure which distance lends,

Across the lifting waves, the tossing foam.

But year signs by, old scenes return once more

To memory, painted fairer than the truth.

Penitence beside her open door

And all that lost and lovely realm of youth!

Then she escapes from Circe's lying bower,

And hastens back, beside his health to drowses.

CHAPTER III.

The moment the office-door closed, Dustin turned sharply on his partner.

It was at once clear that Dustin was the dominant personality. He might defer at times to Spike because of that worthy's virulent tongue when aroused to speech; but Spike's attitude showed that he was dominated and controlled by his partner.

"We've got to do something and do it quick," said Dustin. "Old Dad is bound to talk. He just can't help it. And if once word gets out that he's found rich ore even on the Hour-glass land, there'll be hell to pay. Red Water canon is clearly headed west."

"Huh! You been spendin' a lot of time locatin' a gold mine for old man Carr on the Hour-glass land," said Dustin sneeringly. "A minute ago you were accusin' us of stealin' the Hour-glass cattle. They left and I made my camp in the bottom. Then I went back and looked into the matter o' the vein. I got out two little sacks o' ore. It's assay two thousand pounds to the ton or I'm a Mormon."

"Minerals is different," said Kane hotly. "You know that. Even a cow-puncher knows that. This is a min' law. Any man in the West knows min' law. The man who finds a vein o' ore kinoller it even under patented land. The only thing is the other man mustn't find it first."

"Think old man Carr would sell if he's properly approached?" suggested Spike.

"Huh. Would you sell if he's in his place? That's the answer. Even to mention the possibility of buyin' the rights from him would make him post the ranch against trespassers. Where'd we be then? I'm not worryin' much about old Carr."

The minister says he doesn't mind members of the congregation selling their watches on him, but it gets his goat to have them put the darn things up to their ears to see if they are going to.

Duke of Wellington's Invitation Card Uses Former Spelling

An invitation card, sent out by the Duke of Wellington, at the exhibition in the Royal Victoria Museum, is a reminder that dropping of the "u" in such words as "honor" and "labour" is an American innovation. Like so many Americanisms, it has Anglo-Saxon antecedents. The card asks for the "honor" of the company of Lieut.-Gen. Sir James Macdonell at the dinner given by the duke to celebrate the anniversary of Waterloo. The "favor" of an answer is requested.

Not till the publication of Dr. Johnson's Dictionary in 1755 was English spelling all standardized. Wellington lived in an age in which the tradition of writing precisely as one thought fit still survived. Thus Castleugh, who was his colleague at the Congress of Vienna, also indulged in some eccentricities. In one dispatch written to Liverpool in 1813, the then Foreign Secretary refers to "States" which ambition such objects as "London Daily Telegraph."

Champion Bicycle Rider

The champion pedaller, a cyclist of Leeds, celebrated his jubilee on wheels. He has pedaled 340,000 miles, known England like a map-maker, and thinks nothing of cycling 100 miles a day at 65. In 1911 he pedaled from Leeds to London, 195 miles in 12 hours, 36 minutes, and held record for 21 years. He began on a push-bike, graduated to a penny-farthing, and has ridden every make since.

Pedestrian Crossings

Touring the highways and byways of Great Britain in search of ideas to check the number of accidents, the minister of transport, Hon. Leslie Hore-Belisha has not been able to evolve many new proposals. Among the recent departures in the effort to curb fatalities are pedestrian crossings. These are marked with zigzag white lines at busy intersections, and when pedestrians keep to the marked areas, they are fairly safe. However, efforts to confine the London citizens to the marked areas have not been successful. One city in Great Britain, Sunderland—with 180,000 inhabitants, has been able to show a sheet clear of fatalities for 22 weeks. This is attributed by the chief constable to a persistent campaign of safety first propaganda.
